

Fair Market Value

Where Government(s) and Academia have real time access to restricted data, the majority of the world operates in world using a different set of values.

Russian Values

Andrey Ostroukh published an article on October 3, 2013 “Russia to Grab Pension Money, Temporarily”¹ on the online edition of the Wall Street Journal. To this writer the importance of the article dwells in these words: “Russia’s Finance Ministry sees the budget deficit at 0.7% of gross domestic product this year and 0.5% next year.” In year 2012 it is reported that Russia Gross Domestic Product (GDP) was $2,015 Trillion United States Dollars. Referring to another Walls Street Journal article “IMF Cuts Russia 2013 GDP Growth Forecast to 1.5% from 2.5%”² one could project Russian GDP value and as such could also predict a year 2013 budget deficit of $141 Billion US Dollars. Utilizing a common household calculator Russia’s year 2013 budget deficit would equal $14.105 Billion US Dollars. Consider a 1.5% projected rise in GDP to $2.045 Trillion US Dollars and a budget deficit of 5% reveals a budget deficit of $102 Billion US Dollars. On January 1, 2013 it was calculated that the population was 316,809,000 living breathing souls. In year 2011 the borrowing limit for the United States of America was $16.4 trillion. Failing not to mention Russia’s population in year 2012 was 143.5 million living breathing souls.

Egg Omelet

Old adage was never to put all your eggs into one basket. Back to eggs in a moment, everyone knows it is a crime to cook the books so how does one not break the law, rewrite the cookbook so intangible could be legalized. It is difficult to explain the issue without resorting to some sort of graphical analogy. Applying an analogy one may understand, consider that many decades ago tangible value was represented by a basket of brown eggs. When one sets down to review (eat) the final product, one only sees the scrambled eggs. Whereas a party wanted to advance financially faster than another, laws were changed to allow white eggs to be also used in the making of scrambled eggs, consider the beginning of the transformation from what was real to that of what was not reality and further advance the theoretical philosophy to allow synthetic eggs (intangible) to be introduced into the cooking. When one sets down to eat, one only sees scrambled eggs and knows not what eggs were brown (tangible), white (tangible), or synthetic (intangible). Off topic question(s), should heroin be legalized? Why was it, that improper intangible(s) were legalized.

FMV

When value is applied to a product to accommodate today's market we can still refer to the formula $A+B=C$ where A equals tangible value and B represents intangible value therefor an overlooking sophisticated purchaser really has no idea of what was really purchased, but the want to be right is so great one is apt to forget the cookbook has been rewritten to allow intangible substitution. Where Russia GDP of $2,015 Trillion and with a population of 143.5 tangible value owed would be simple to determine by simple division. $2,015,000,000,000/143,500,000$ results in a value of $14,041 per soul. Applying a little reasoning math to the American egg we have $16,400,000,000,000 to be paid for by the soul profit from 316,809,000 if all were working profit producing results in a value of $51.766 Million. A reasonable mean value for earning of an American ranges between $24,000 and $32,140 for year 2005. Applying and extrapolating a reasonable low value for year 2013 maybe around $30,402. As one can clearly see the rise of tangible rise in earning would never succeed in balancing or canceling the intangible debt created.

Wanted – Dead or Alive

Early in Steve McQueen's life he was noted to carry a short barreled rifle while looking for the crooks to bring to justice, dead or alive. Appears there are those within many governments, financial institutions, "and" including many of those in Central Banks that appear to be more concerned with saving the synthetic egg that seeing a chicken hatch from a brown "or" white egg. The one most serious question remains, how long will it take for the people (millions if not billions), who depend on work for generation of tangible value to see that intangible values are attempting to replace life values?

Children's Futures

Maybe it is that those few dependent upon intangible values care not about but for their own. One thing for certain, where one is to continue the path currently on, failure is imminent and the paying of the price of future failure will not be pretty. Without knowing the added expenses to be added, it cannot be calculated to any certainty to how many generations of children will suffer and pay the price for a bunch of rotten eggs. At present date, if failure was presented it would not be pretty but failure in the future would make a failure of today look like a birthday celebration.

History-Repeats

Crookedness repeats but clearly actions taken today by government and financial people with claiming they are following historical policy is surely scrambled. All failures in the past have dealt with restoring tangible values, however today, it appears as the only concern is to save the intangible and allow the tangible to die. Tools of past are not applicable tools of today, the cookbook is not the same.

One needs and should be proud of their country, when cooking leaders fail, the faith of the people fails for the hand not feeds truth and justice, not only within thy owns country, but throughout the world.

Poker

Considering a heroin addicts is only concern with finding the next fix, a question arises to protecting an intangible purchase. No issue with one wanting insurance for full value of risk undertaken, but where there are many subservient that also take out insurance, there is a point in time that the insurance payouts value total will exceed the tangible covered.

Similar in fashion, is the long and short side bet (poker) that pays out using intangible created wealth and the receiver then proceeds to attempt to surrender the intangible for something of tangible value. Legal, but scrambled and palatable only to the party that purchased and insured the side bet.

House –FMV

The question arises, in the current market is the value on the sign in the front yard represent intangible value or tangible value? For Wall Street to operate under the new cookbook, value must be assigned as to be that of intangible value.
