

Tread of Man

Over 2,000 years ago there was no method and means in place nor was one required to measure the tread wear of a sandal. Once the sandal was worn, the soul of the foot would feel the heat of the Earth. In this new modern era, there is no known instrument that can gauge the soul of a man, but God gave man the method and means for gauging one's soul. Why is it then that a part of humanity fails to practice and apply the methods and means that "God gave to all?"

Is the failure because the message failed in providing the knowledge? Is the failure due to a failure of the teacher to teach?

This writer does not see that God as a teacher failed, but those of man that claim to be a teacher failed. Order and discipline is required to keep a house in order, so we are taught. When employing order and discipline one must not forget to not break the train of thought of the child. Tell a child to stand, the child will stand, tell a child to sit, the child will sit, tell a child to speak, the child will speak. The teacher needs to ask oneself, what have I taught this child? Have, as a teacher, have I taught the child to follow blind sheep or have taught the child how to find wisdom?

The law of the land has judged this writer to be elderly; however, this writer in relation to God's time is just an infant that still seeks the meaning of "Wah." Upon the birth of a child, a child has a very limited means to communicate with the new world. It is up to each teaching parent to seek the meaning of each cried "Wah" and respond with the appropriate method and means. Applying the appropriate method and means will allow for the child to grow to where the child can seek wisdom independent of a teaching parent.

In time, each child will become elderly and pass on to their child their wisdom. According to science, the Earth has slowed in rotation allowing for the days to become longer, however the length of the day has not increased proportionally with increased speed the people travel. It is not the speed of a pair of sandals, nor is it the speed of a car that has allowed the world to falter. It is a failure of teachers. Is it time to examine the method and means of applying teaching in relation to methods of years past to compensate for today's world. Where as God knows the answer, we as teachers are seeking and answer to a modern day "Wah." Have we seniors become so accustomed to our own arse sitting on a man made throne that we have failed to notice the fire of hell is upon us?

This writer shall leave it to theologians to answer how many of God's words were not cast in stone? For where man lives not up to these words cast in stone, how many other words have fallen on blind ears? Lie not to the worthy, dying or the dead, nor lie not to the worthy living of the body.

Each must judge the value of thyself, how will you judge thyself???
