

Aftermath

By James McGuire

Dedicated to Charles Lee “Chuck” Fulton, III

November 30, 1956 – August 11, 2011

I am obligated to remember Chuck, someone I called “friend.” Chuck’s father, Rev. Dr. C. L. Fulton, who I only recently met, led me to understand the principles of life that Chuck believed in and why these principles must be followed.

Someone spoke these words, “Chuck’s job is done and his reward is to be with the father everlasting.” Well spoken words for many, but to me, even though Chuck’s mortal tasks of life for humanity may have been accomplished, Chuck’s tasks sitting by the father will have a greater impact upon humanity than humanity will ever know. Personally, I would like to see Chuck cast a few lightning bolts from his fingertips towards the arse of evil. But this would not be Chuck’s way to aid humanity. Instead, I will miss Chuck, but am relieved knowing that he will forever be listening and providing guidance and spiritual support.

Price paid by one for the benefit of humanity

*Let brotherly love continue. Be not forgetful to entertain strangers:
for thereby some have entertained angels unawares.*
